

January/February:

- 2007 ICPRB Projects Bring Stakeholders Together for Basin Progress
- Watching the River Flow
- Pa. Residents Can Assist in Protecting Drinking Water
- Chairman's Report
- Pa. Commissioner Bill Plank Passes Away
- Join ICPRB for the Summer River Ramble, June 7-10
- The Potomac Cleanup Needs You

March/April :

- 19th Annual Potomac Cleanup Draws Thousands, Collects Tons
- Sailors Retracing History on New Water Trail
- Watching the River Flow
- Williamsport Gets Silver for Going Green
- Fish Kills Continue on Shenandoah
- Got (Really Old) Trees?
- Register Now for ICPRB's Summer River Ramble, June7-10
- Celebrate the Potomac

May/June :

- Potomac Murder Mystery: Shenandoah, South Branch Fish Kills Continue
- Anglers Asked to Protect Against Whirling Disease
- Through Whitewater, Thunderstorms, and Comradery, Ramblers Get a New View of Potomac
- Remembering Bill Plank
- ICPRB Honors Potomac Stewardship
- Friend of Potomac, ICPRB, Gilbert Gude, Passes Away
- Watching the River Flow
- ICPRB Honored as Watershed Steward

July/August :

2007 Potomac Basin Reporter Issues

Written by Administrator - Last Updated Friday, 29 August 2008 10:56

- Getting the Most From the River's Flows
- Chronic Anoxia in Lower Potomac Persists
- Harmful Algae Blooms Limited in Potomac This Year
- Without Algae, Other Life Would be Impossible
- River Loses Protector, Historian With Passing of Stanton
- Watching the River Flow
- Interest in Rain Barrels, Green Landscaping Increasing

September/October :

- A River of Grass (And Some Invasive Plants)
- Keep Water Lettuce and Other Invasives Out of the Potomac!
- Watching the River Flow
- Rusty Crayfish Move into the Monocacy River
- ICPRB Uses Drought Conditions to Study Water Supply
- Catoctin Aqueduct to be Restored
- Swimming Returns to D.C.
- Too Much Paper?

November/December :

- Doing Too Much and Not Enough: Potomac's Grades Continue to Disappoint
- Poorly Understood Bacteria a Crucial Part of Potomac's Ecosystem
- Educating About Water Lettuce and Other Invasives
- Forum Renews Enthusiasm to Continue Watershed Work
- Watching the River Flow
- American Shad Succeeds in River, Classroom
- ICPRB Commissioner Now and Admiral
- Long-time Commission Council Dies