

January/February:

- ICPRB a Partner in Restoration Plans, Research, and Outreach in 2006
- Watching the River Flow
- Chairman's Report
- Join the Potomac Watershed Cleanup...
- And Check Water Clarity...
- Watch a Swim

March/April :

- Thousands of Cleanup Volunteers Collect Trash, Information
- Coastal Plain Groundwater Workshop Encourages Cooperation
- ICPRB, Partners Providing Needed Groundwater Planning Information
- Watching the River Flow
- Fish Kills Continue in Shenandoah Watershed
- River Rambles Rally Environmental Stewards

May/June :

- Region's Scientists Investigate Lower Potomac Fish Kill
- Government Joins Forces to Address Contamination
- Shenandoah, Potomac Partnerships Prosper
- Watching the River Flow
- A Profusion of Aquatic Plants in Potomac
- Deluge Derails Drought Watch
- ICPRB Biologist Jim Cummins Honored for American Shad Project
- Join ICPRB for an October River Ramble

July/August :

- Snakehead Research and Population Growing
- Quiet Work Behind the Scenes Enhances, Protects Water Supply

2006 Potomac Basin Reporter Issues

Written by Administrator - Last Updated Friday, 29 August 2008 10:57

- Watching the River Flow
- Swimming, Boating in the Potomac River: How Safe Is It?
- Harmful Algae Present in the Potomac, But Less Than Predicted
- Potomac Basin Wastewater Plants Get New Nutrient Limits
- Come Paddle With Us!

September/October :

- Potomac River Ramble Draws Paddlers Closer to River's Resources
- Drinking Water Partnership is an Added Level of Protection
- CO-OP, Water Suppliers Play Serious Game
- Watching the River Flow
- Congress Conducts Hearing Potomac Chemical Issues
- Brook Trout Backed by Alliance
- ICPRB's Cummins Honored for Shad Restoration

November/December :

- 2006: Taking Stock
- Watching the River Flow
- ACWA Takes Antietam Creek by Bootstraps
- Free Water for Everyone
- Pennsylvania Group Honored for Protecting Water Source